

Contents

- 1 Leadership and Professional Development 2
- Key Considerations for Language Plan 2
 - Introduction 3
 - A. What do program administrators need to know about young dual language learners? 5
Linda M. Espinosa
 - B. What are the nationally accepted terms used to describe young children who speak different languages? 7
Kathleen Leos
 - C. What terms do states and practitioners use to describe young children who speak different languages? 8
Karen N. Nemeth
 - D. How are preK children and K–3 students alike and different? 9
Karen N. Nemeth
 - E. How are preK and K–3 curricula models alike and different? 11
Theresa Roberts
 - F. How are preK children’s and K-3 students’ language learning and development needs alike and different? 13
Patton Tabors
 - G. What skills and dispositions are needed by teachers of English language learners in early childhood? 15
Luz Marina Cardona
 - H. What is developmentally appropriate practice for grades preK–3? 16
Janet Gonzalez-Mena
 - I. How should we interview and hire effective staff for preK and K–3 children who are English language learners? 17
Laura C. Morana
 - J. What do staff in linguistically diverse programs need to know when they start working? 18
Laura C. Morana
B. J. Franks

- K. How should we define the roles of the bilingual teacher, English as a second language teacher, general education teacher with diverse languages, teacher assistant, coach/mentor, principal, and supervisor? 20
Diane Staehr Fenner
Karen N. Nemeth
- L. What resources should administrators be reading or organizations should they be joining to stay properly informed? 23
Karen N. Nemeth
- M. What kinds of professional development and ongoing support can be effective for teachers of young English language learners? 25
Douglas D. Bell, Jr.
Judie Haynes
Sonia W. Soltero
- N. What do general education teachers need to know to work effectively with the English language learners in their classrooms? 28
Douglas D. Bell, Jr.
Jennifer Mata
- O. How can administrators support effective collaboration and planning among staff who work with young English language learners? 30
Ellen Hall and Alison Maher
Monica Schnee
- P. How can administrators effectively supervise staff when languages don't match? 33
Karen N. Nemeth

Resources and Questions 34

2 Identification and Planning 36

Key Considerations for Language Plan 36

Introduction 37

- A. How should we identify young children who are dual/English language learners? 38
Debbie Zacarian
Karen N. Nemeth
- B. How are placement decisions made? 40
Wayne E. Wright
- C. What are the best ways to assess language proficiency during early childhood (preK–3)? 42
Sandra Barrueco
- D. What do administrators need to know to plan appropriate service models that work with different populations? 43
Sonia W. Soltero

- E. How can administrators plan appropriately for successful transitions of young English language learners into the program and from one year/program/service/environment to the next? 45
Laura C. Morana
Monica Schnee
- F. How are decisions made for exiting or entering a service or program? 47
Barbara Tedesco
- G. How can administrators establish effective services for small numbers of English language learners or those who speak low-incidence languages? 48
Judie Haynes
- H. What accommodations in emergency planning and other program policy should be made for children who are English language learners? 48
Karen N. Nemeth
- I. What are early language development standards for dual language learners and why are they important? 49
Margo Gottlieb
- J. What are the connections between states' early learning standards and early language standards? 51
Ruth Reindl and Erin Arango-Escalante

Resources and Questions 55

3 How Young Children Learn in Two or More Languages 56

Key Considerations for Language Plan 56

Introduction 57

- A. How do young learners develop first and second languages? 58
Patton Tabors
- B. How long does it take a young child to become fluent in a second language learned sequentially? 60
Elizabeth D. Peña
- C. What factors influence the development of first and second languages in early childhood? 61
Anita Pandey
- D. What is the role of home language learning and maintenance in supporting successful outcomes in English language learning and literacy? 64
Anita Pandey
- E. What is the role of oral language development in primary and secondary language acquisition in the early years? 67
Anita Pandey

- F. What is the role of culture in language learning? 69
Lisa M. López
- G. What are the best ways for an English language learner to learn to read and write, and what factors should go into that planning? 70
Theresa Roberts
Lisa M. López
- H. What is the role of home literacy practice in supporting success of English language learners in grades preK–3? 73
Lisa M. López
- I. What is the relationship between growing up bilingual and the development of executive function skills? 74
Tracey Tokuhamu-Espinosa

Resources and Questions 76

4 Developing Instructional Programs for Young Dual Language Learners 78

Key Considerations for Language Plan 78

Introduction 79

- A. What are bilingual education, English as a second language, and special or related services? How are they alike or different? 80
Karen N. Nemeth
- B. What are some research-based program models? 80
B. J. Franks
Margarita Calderón
Maria N. Trejo
- C. What are best practices for bilingual education in grades preK–3? 84
Zoila Tazi
- D. What are best practices for English as a second language/English language development programs in grades preK–3? 86
Judy Hicks and Claude Goldenberg
- E. What do administrators need to know about the effectiveness of pull-out, push-in, and embedded intervention methods for each age group in early childhood? 88
Karen N. Nemeth
- F. What is dual language immersion, and what does research say about its effectiveness? 89
Jennifer Chen
- G. What factors do administrators need to know to choose the best program models for the population, resources, and staff abilities they have? 90
Judy Hicks and Claude Goldenberg

- H. What do administrators need to know to make appropriate curriculum selections for preK and K–3 programs serving children who are English language learners? 92
Nancy Cloud
- I. What are effective teacher behaviors and interaction styles to support English language learners in grades preK–3? 93
Cristina Gillanders
- J. What materials, supplies, displays, and resources should we see in classrooms? 94
Iliana Alanis
Cristina Gillanders
- K. What are the best ways to use technology to support language learning? 97
Karen N. Nemeth
- L. How can we ensure differentiation so that materials and instruction are appropriate for the various ages and stages of students? 97
Jennifer Mata
- M. What practices are developmentally appropriate for the intentional support of vocabulary development? 99
Nancy Cloud
- N. How can we handle challenging behaviors of students who are also English language learners? 101
Pamela Brillante
- O. How should programs serve young English language learners with special needs? 102
Vera Gutiérrez-Clellen
- P. How should we address first and second language supports in the special education plan? 103
Vera Gutiérrez-Clellen
Pamela Brillante

Resources and Questions 105

5 Policies, Accountability, and Program Effectiveness 106

Key Considerations for Language Plan 106

Introduction 107

- A. What federal laws and regulations affect early childhood programs for dual/English language learners in grades preK–3? 109
Karen N. Nemeth
- B. What state guidelines and regulations do administrators need to know from the perspective of preK and K–3? 110
Laura Bornfreund

- C. What national guidance and regulations come into play when elementary schools partner with Head Start or other preschool programs? 111
Karen N. Nemeth
- D. How do special education regulations work with English language learner regulations? 113
Pamela Brillante
- E. What kinds of data are needed for tracking and planning for preK–3 English language learners? 114
Zoila Tazi
Laura Ascenzi-Moreno
- F. What do administrators need to know from national professional associations to guide best practices for serving preK–3 English language learners in general and special education? 118
Karen N. Nemeth
- G. What do administrators need to know about commonly used preschool classroom assessments and measures of quality? 119
Karen N. Nemeth
- H. What do administrators need to know about commonly used K–3 classroom assessments and curriculum implementation measures? 121
Kate Mahoney
- I. How can student achievement data be used to evaluate and support teacher improvement? 122
Lisa M. López
Wayne E. Wright
- J. What are the best assessments for content learning and core content standards for students who are not proficient in English? 124
Kate Mahoney
- K. What is portfolio assessment and why is it important for preK programs or grades K–3? 125
Diep Nguyen
- L. How can data on student performance and classroom quality be used to plan professional development and staffing adaptations? 126
Lisa M. López
Margarita Calderón
- M. How should we evaluate and support teacher assistants effectively? 129
Karen N. Nemeth

Resources and Questions 130

6 Working Effectively with Families, the Community, and Volunteers 132

Key Considerations for Language Plan 132

Introduction 133

- A. What do administrators need to know about paid/volunteer interpreters or using family as interpreters? 134
Diep Nguyen
- B. What are best practices for enrolling and welcoming diverse families? 135
Sandee McHugh-McBride
- C. How can we get diverse families involved in their children's education and engaged in the school community? 135
Judie Haynes
Sandee McHugh-McBride
- D. How do we partner with families to access their funds of knowledge? 137
Leslie Sevey
- E. How do we connect with community resources to enhance the effectiveness of our program? 138
Leslie Sevey and Nancy Cloud
- F. What can/should we put on our school website to connect with and inform families who speak different languages? 140
Karen N. Nemeth
- G. What should administrators consider when setting attendance policies in diverse early childhood education programs? 141
Karen N. Nemeth
- H. How should we advocate for English language learners and their families to ensure they get the social services they need? 142
Karen N. Nemeth
- I. Who are the constituents that I need to build relationships with in the district and the community? 143
Barbara Tedesco
Diep Nguyen
- J. What can administrators and staff do to become more culturally aware and sensitive? 144
Janet Gonzalez-Mena
- K. What strategies help administrators and staff cope with conflict in diverse environments? 145
Laura Ascenzi-Moreno
- L. How should administrators handle difficult conversations with parents who speak different languages? 146
Janet Gonzalez-Mena

M. How can administrators foster buy-in from all staff and constituents in support of a language plan or vision? 147

Laura Ascenzi-Moreno

N. What do we know about the value to all students of growing up bilingual? 148

Karen N. Nemeth

Resources and Questions 149

Glossary 151

References 155

Index 165